Summary

When was the last time you have dived deep into something and fully immersed yourself in it? To struggle and learn the complexities while enjoying the enriching knowledge that comes with it?

For me, I have decided to dive deep and fully immerse myself in the Banking and Finance industry, and hopefully, many other industries in the future.

My journey first started at the Institute of Technical Education (ITE), where I completed a two-year programme in Higher-Nitec in Banking and Services. During my study term, I was exposed to the financial products and banking procedures carried out by bankers, as well as the various job opportunities. Needless to say, I was captivated. And currently, I am pursuing a Diploma in Banking and Finance at Nanyang Polytechnic.

I also got the opportunity to work at the Singapore College of Insurance (SCI) as a student intern during my time at ITE, where I was further introduced to the insurance industry. Furthermore, I completed my Certificate in General Insurance (CGI), where I learned a multitude of insurance policies, terms, and conditions. And before I knew it, I was already knee-length deep into the Financial Services industry.

As a curious individual, I enjoy participating in workshops and community service, volunteering for leadership roles and picking up both team and individual sports such as judo, running, soccer, and basketball. I had the chance to hone my social and leadership skills, and the ability to work both independently and especially in teams – which I have taken great interest in. Being a goal-oriented and open-minded individual, I enjoy connecting with like-minded individuals and working towards a common goal with them; and of course, also individuals with differing views as well, as I enjoy exploring different insights to broaden my perspective and make friends with them!
